FORWARD

The COMPENDIUM SERIES, a summary of data, is to provide the general community, policy makers, academics, and just anyone interested in numbers, data, and statistics on aspects of campaign finance in Hawaii. The information gathered by the Campaign Spending Commission each year is a rich trove of information rarely seen in compiled form by the public.

We hope the community will find the information useful and of interest. For some interested person there is a story in the data. We welcome any suggestions on the display of the information or suggestions for other compilations.

March 2005

INTRODUCTION

The first of the Campaign Spending Commission's COMPENDIUM SERIES gives a broad overview of public funds disbursed to candidates since the inception of public funding in 1980 through the elections of 2004. The overview includes thirteen election cycles, i.e., a primary election and a general election. During this period there were some changes in the law, which to the extent possible are annotated. Because of changes in the law comparisons between election periods is not always possible. On the other hand, the changes in some cases allow for comparisons in outcomes where variables are changed.

Future publications will examine other aspects of public funding in greater detail; thus, the series in public funding will need to be examined as a whole. Future publications will include variables such as expenditures of candidates, and total number of candidates in all the races.

Prior to 1998, the Campaign Spending Commission issued an in depth compilation of all election races for each election cycle. However, the practice was discontinued because a close inspection of the numbers revealed considerable discrepancy between the actual figures on contributions and expenditures and the reported figures. The COMPENDIUM SERIES will more than make up for the deficit since, it is assumed that there will be greater accuracy in the reported numbers and more importantly the publications will include more depth on specific issues.

The computer has been the significant technological advancement that has made the publication of the COMPENDIUM SERIES a possibility. Credit needs to be given to Associate Director Tony Baldomero who has given countless hours in imputing the data into a usable database, and checking and double-checking the accuracy of the information. Linda Takushi, Commission Technician, is the Commission Historian who has been with the organization for many years and keeps an organized file and record of the data and documents. She is invaluable as the keeper of the record.

The disbursement of public funds is organized by year, and each year includes candidates, office, and amounts for the primary and general election as well as a total. Part Two of the disbursement of public funds from 1980 to 2004 includes a sort of the data by office.

PUBLIC FINANCING IN HAWAII

Hawaii is unique among the States in that a public funding program for candidates is in the Hawaii State Constitution. Partial public funding for candidates must be made available for state as well as local candidates. The constitutional basis and the enabling legislation is as follows:

Section 5, Campaign Fund, Spending Limit of the State Constitution reads as follows:

The legislature shall establish a campaign fund to be used for partial public financing of campaigns for public office of the State and its political subdivisions, as provided by law. The legislature shall provide a limit on the campaign spending of candidates.

This amendment was passed at the Constitutional Convention of 1978.

With the passage of the campaign finance statute in 1979, a public fund was created to enable taxpayers to designate a portion of their income tax liability to the fund. Section 11-217, Hawaii Revised Statutes reads as follows:

Hawaii election campaign fund; creation. The Hawaii election campaign fund is created within the state treasury. The fund shall consist of all moneys collected from persons who have designated a portion of their income tax liability to the fund as provided in section 235-102.5, any general fund revenues appropriated, as well as all other moneys collected pursuant to this subpart. Payment to each candidate from the fund shall be by the comptroller in the manner prescribed in section 11-222.

It is from the Hawaii election campaign fund that public funds are provided to candidates that qualify for the Hawaii public fund program. The department of taxation determines the number of taxpayers that have designated a portion of their income tax liability to the fund.

Section 235-102.5, Hawaii Revised Statutes, of the Hawaii tax code provides that each individual taxpayer may designate $2 from the general fund to be paid to the Hawaii election campaign fund. The designation of $2 would not decrease any refund due to the individual taxpayer.

The Hawaii public funding program is unique among all the states because it is the only state that calls for the availability of public funds for all state and local political offices. Offices include: Governor, Lieutenant Governor, Mayors, Prosecuting Attorneys, Senate, House of Representatives, County Councils, Office of Hawaiian Affairs, and Board of Education.

In addition, Hawaii is among only a handful of states that provides an income tax credit or deduction to contributors for contributions made to candidate committees. It may be the only state to provide a tax deduction for contributions to candidates that agree to voluntarily limit expenditures. Candidates that seek public funding are able to inform their contributors that they are eligible for a tax deduction for a portion of the contribution.

Section 235-7(g), Hawaii Revised Statutes provides for a tax deduction for limited contributions made to a political party or a candidate that has agreed to abide by campaign expenditure limits.

A key component of Section 5 of the State Constitution is that any candidate wanting to participate in the public fund program must voluntarily agree to limit campaign expenditures. Although limiting expenditures by candidates was found to be unconstitutional by the U.S. Supreme Court, the Court, nevertheless, found that an expenditure limit can be imposed by the government where taxpayers are assisting the candidate, such as, through a public financing program.

Section 11-209, Hawaii Revised Statutes provides a schedule for expenditure limits for each office. The expenditure limit is based on a formula of a discrete amount for each office multiplied by the number of voters in the last preceding general election registered to vote. The schedule adopted in 1979 was as follows:

1. For the office of governor--$1.25;
2. For the office of lieutenant governor--70 cents;
3. For the office of mayor--$1.00;
4. For the offices of state senator, state representative, county council member, and prosecuting attorney--70 cents; and
5. For the offices of the board of education and all other offices--10 cents.

In addition, there was an inflation factor to an increase of five percent added to the amounts allowed under this subsection for each year. This inflation factor was repealed in the Special Session of 1995.

As a condition of receiving public funds for an election a candidate was required to receive qualifying campaign contributions. A qualifying campaign contribution is defined as a contribution of no more than $100 from a contributor. Each class of office was required under section 11-219, Hawaii Revised Statutes, to receive a minimum number of qualifying contributions in the aggregate in order to qualify for public funds. These amounts in 1979 were as follows:

1. For the office of governor--qualifying contributions which in the aggregate exceed $25,000;
2. For the office of lieutenant governor--qualifying contributions which in the aggregate exceed $20,000;
3. For the office of mayor in a county having more that 100,000 registered voters--qualifying contributions which in the aggregate exceed $15,000;
4. For the office of mayor in a county having less than 100,000 registered voters--qualifying contributions which in the aggregate exceed $2,000; and
5. For all other offices--qualifying contributions which in the aggregate exceed $500.

The law in section 11-218, Hawaii Revised Statutes, placed a maximum amount of public funds available to a candidate. The maximum amount of public funds available to a candidate for the office of governor, lieutenant governor or mayor in any election year could not exceed one-fifth or twenty percent of the total expenditure limit for the respective offices.

For the office of state senator, state representative, county council member, prosecuting attorney, board of education and all other offices, the maximum amount of public funds available to a candidate was $100 in any election year, or $50 in an election.

There is only a handful of states that provide public funding to candidates at the state level and around a dozen that provide public funding to local candidates from local resources. A definitive number is not possible because, while some jurisdictions have features of public funding "on the books", the availability of funds is only assured through the availability of public funds. Furthermore, Hawaii is the only state to provide a tax deduction to contributors of publicly financed candidates.

In the maiden year of availability of public funds for candidates, eighteen (18) candidates participated in the program. A total of $1,000 was disbursed to the 18 candidates. Eight candidates receiving public funds were running for the Board of Education, while five candidates were running for the Office of Hawaiian Affairs. Two candidates for State Representative, one State Senate candidate and two Hawaii County Council candidates received public funds.

All 18 candidates received $50 for the primary and two candidates received an additional $50 in the general election. In this first election with public funding, eight of the participating candidates were for the Board of Education, and three of those candidates won their seats. Overall, five candidates succeeded in winning their seats.

Public Funds Returned

Bicoy, Bernaldo - $23,430 (Reason: Convicted)

Public funds disbursed in the 1982 elections increased dramatically to $427,721 from the previous election period. The most significant event appears to be that the 1982 elections included a gubernatorial election. Two candidates for Governor and five candidates for Lieutenant Governor received public funds in the 1982 election.

There were 29 candidates participating in the public fund program. The formula for eligibility for public funds favored the major offices. Of the twenty-nine candidates who participated in the public fund program five won their respective seats, four were state representative candidates and one lieutenant governor candidate.

1984 ELECTION YEAR

| Name | Office | Primary | General | Total | Won/Lost |
|-------------------|------------------------|-------------------|-----------------|-------------------|-----------------|
| Casupang, Claudio | State Representative | $0.00 | $50.00 | $50.00 | L |
| Hale, Helene | Mayor, Hawaii | $6,503.00 | $0.00 | $6,503.00 | L |

| Total - | | $6,553.00 | $100.00 | $6,653.00 | |

The 1984 election year included only four candidates participating in the public financing program. One reason that such a small number of candidates participated in the program was because the 1982 election had nearly drained the fund. A total of $6,653 was disbursed from the fund. Candidates included Board of Education, State Representative, Hawaii Mayor and Hawaii County Council. All four candidates participating in the program failed to win a seat.

| Total - | | $267,685.60 | $83,515.12 | $351,200.72 | |

A total of sixteen (16) candidates received public funding for the 1986 election year. Public funds disbursed in 1986 totaled $351,200. Like 1982, a gubernatorial election year, there were a larger number of candidates for those offices participating in the program. One candidate for Governor and five candidates for Lieutenant Governor received public funds. Four Mayoral candidates participated in the public funding program. The cap of $100 for the races of County Council and State Representative races limited participation to six candidates in total. Four candidates participating in the program won seats in this election.

1988 ELECTION YEAR

| Total - | | $243,482.00 | $80,197.00 | $323,679.00 | |

In 1988, the number of candidates choosing to participate in the public fund program declined to twelve (12) candidates. A total of $323,679 was disbursed to the 12 candidates. Almost all of the funds were disbursed to four Honolulu Mayoral candidates. A very small amount, $350 was disbursed to four State Representative candidates, $100 to two Honolulu City Council candidates, and $50 to a State Senate candidate and a Board of Education candidate. Only one candidate participating in the public fund program succeeded in winning an election.

In 1987, the legislature increased the inflation factor for the expenditure limit for each office by requiring that the 10 percent annual increase be compounded annually starting in 1979.

The legislature in 1987 amended the qualifying contribution limit by increasing the aggregate qualifying contributions from $2,000 to $5,000 for the office of Mayor in a county having less than 100,000 registered voters. Other minor adjustments were made by Act 369, Session Laws of Hawaii, 1987.

In 1989, Act 120, Session Laws of Hawaii, was enacted and for the first time, the disbursement for state representative, senate, county council, prosecuting attorney, board of education, and other offices (Office of Hawaiian Affairs) was increased, albeit for only one election. The amount to be disbursed for the 1990 election was increased from $50 to $250 per election, or $500 for the primary and general election combined. The specific intent was to increase utilization of the Hawaii Election Campaign Fund. The increase was for one election trial period, and thereafter, the legislature could decide if the increase could be made on a permanent basis. The increase to $250 per election was discontinued after one year.

At the same time, the amount of aggregate qualifying contributions required to receive public funds increased from $500 to $1,000. Act 120, Session Laws of Hawaii, called for the repeal of these amendments after the 1990 elections.

The number of candidates for state representative, senate and county council did increase in the 1990 elections. The number of candidates participating in the public fund program reached a record of thirty candidates (30). Twenty-eight (28) of the candidates were for State Representative, County Council, State Senate and a lone candidate for Board of Education.

The total amount of funds disbursed was $262,807 to the 30 candidates, however, 96 percent of the funds went to a gubernatorial candidate and a Lieutenant Governor candidate. Four candidates that participated in the public fund program won election to seats.

The number of candidates participating in the 1992 election for public funds was down considerably at sixteen (16), down from thirty (30) in the 1990 election. Funds disbursed were also down dramatically at $56,319 to the sixteen candidates.

The amendment of 1989 in Act 120 to increase the amount of public funds to some offices did appear to have some effect. The number of candidates for State Representative, State Senate, Prosecuting Attorney and County Council was down to thirteen. Almost all of the disbursements ($55,000) went to three candidates for Honolulu Mayor. The total disbursements and number of participants seemed to follow the dip in non-gubernatorial years.

Public Funds Returned

Gill, Gary - $40 (Reason: Unused)

Lewin, John - $895 (Reason: Unused)

Total Returned - $935

A record amount of public funds was disbursed in the 1994 elections to fourteen (14) candidates. Total funds disbursed were $859,765. Of the 14 candidates, six were State Representative candidates and one was for the Kauai County Council. Two gubernatorial candidates received a total of $383,908 in public funds, while three candidates for Lieutenant Governor received $316,079 in public funds. Two Honolulu Mayoral candidates received $158,393 in public funds. The 1990 elections appeared to illustrate clearly that increased public funding played a role in the number of candidates that participate in the public funding program. Candidates for the state representative, senate and county council offices participating in the public fund program were down considerably.

Noteworthy is that this is the first election that both a governor and lieutenant governor are elected to public office using public funds in the Hawaii program in the same election.

Perhaps the most significant amendments to the campaign spending law since its inception, particularly as it relates to public financing occurred in the 1995 session. Act 10 Special Session of 1995 substantially increased funding to state representative, state senate, county council and prosecuting attorney. This appears to explain the increase in the number of candidates participating in the public funding program from these offices. Moreover, the amendments favored candidates running for the lesser offices such as state representative, state senate and county council.

In 1996, twenty-two (22) candidates participated in the public fund program, receiving a total of $100,091, the largest amount disbursed in a year when no gubernatorial candidate was participating in the public funding program. Significantly, eighteen (18) State Representative candidates participated in the public fund program. Prior to the 1995 amendments, the most that a state representative could receive in an election period (primary and general) was $100. The 1995 amendments made it possible for state representative candidates to receive over $4,000 in an election period. Prior to the 1995 amendment, a candidate for prosecuting attorney could receive only $100. In 1996, the prosecuting attorney candidate was eligible to receive as much as $73,300 in each election. A prosecuting attorney was elected using public funds. One Hawaii Mayoral candidate and a State Senate candidate participated in the program in 1996.

1995 Amendments to Campaign Spending Law

The 1995 amendments impacted the expenditure limits, the qualifying campaign contributions, the maximum amount of public funds available, and specified that an opponent was required in order to be entitled to public funds.

The expenditure limit was doubled over previous years as expressed in an amount for each office multiplied by the number of voters in the preceding general election registered to vote, and the ten per cent annually compounded inflation factor was not included. These amounts are as follows:

1. For the office of governor--$2.50;
2. For the office of lieutenant governor--$1.40;
3. For the office of mayor--$2.00;
4. For the office of state senator, state representative, county council, and prosecuting attorney--$1.40;
5. For the office of board of education and the office of Hawaiian affairs--$.20

The amount of public funds available to a candidate was expressed as a percent of the expenditure limit. The maximum amount of public funds available for the office of governor, lieutenant governor, or mayor in any election year shall not exceed twenty percent of the expenditure limit established for the respective office. For the office of state senator, state representative, county council and prosecuting attorney the maximum amount shall be thirty percent of the total expenditure limit for the respective office. For the board of education and the office of Hawaiian affairs, the maximum amount available to a candidate was set at $100 for the election year.

The minimum qualifying campaign contributions were also amended as follows for each election (the primary and general election are counted as separate elections):

1. For the office of governor--$75,000;
2. For the office of lieutenant governor--$50,000;
3. For the office of mayor and prosecuting attorney in a county having more than one hundred thousand registered voters--$40,000;
4. For the office of mayor and prosecuting attorney in a county having less than one hundred thousand registered voters--$10,000;
5. For the office of county council--$5,000;
6. For the office of state senator--$2,500;
7. For the office of state representative--$1,500;
8. For the board of education and office of Hawaiian Affairs--$500.

Prior to 1996 there was no requirement that a candidate participating in the public funding program had to have an opponent. A candidate running unopposed was entitled to receive public funds. The 1995 amendments specified clearly that to be entitled to receive public funds there needed to be at least one opponent in that election for which the publicly funded candidate was receiving qualifying contributions.

The 1998 elections found a record number of candidates participating in the public fund program. Forty-nine (49) candidates statewide participated in the program, including a gubernatorial candidate and two candidates for Lieutenant Governor. Most significantly, the number of candidates for State Representative, State Senate, and County Council now represented more than ninety percent of the candidates participating in the public fund program. This is most likely attributed to the dramatically greater amount of funds available to the candidates. For example, prior to 1996, a candidate for Honolulu City Council could receive only $100 for the election period. After the amendments of 1995, a Honolulu City Council candidate could receive approximately $18,000 in public funds in an election period.

In the 1998 elections, $519,139 in public funds was disbursed to the 49 candidates. However, the gubernatorial candidate returned $136,229 in public funds because the campaign exceeded the expenditure limit. Eleven candidates participating in the program were successful in winning seats to office.

Public Funds Returned

Davis, Michael - $8.31 (Reason: Unused)

Tavares, Charmaine - $2,579.56 (Reason: Unused)

Total Returned - $2,587.87

The drop-off in the number of candidates participating in the public funding program in a non-gubernatorial election year continued with thirty-three (33) candidates in 2000, down from forty-nine (49) candidates in 1998. The total amount disbursed declined to $222,453. Of the 33 candidates participating in the program only three were not State Representative, State Senate, or County Council candidates. One candidate ran for an Office of Hawaiian Affairs seat. The Hawaii County Prosecuting Attorney was elected using public funds. Of the thirty-three candidates participating in the public fund program thirteen candidates won a seat to office.

Gabbard, Mike - $7,491.00 (Reason: Expenditure Limit Exceeded)

Koki, Stan - $100.00 (Reason: Disqualified Contribution)

Rapozo, Melvin - $48.19 (Reason: Unused)

Total Returned - $7,639.19

In 2002, forty-five (45) candidates participated in the public fund program receiving a total of $322,486. Although this was a gubernatorial year, there was only one candidate for Lieutenant Governor participating in the program. There were three candidates for mayor, and one candidate was successful. Again, it is clear from the participation in the program that the amendments of 1995 significantly increased public funding participants for the offices of State Representative and County Council. Sixteen candidates for public office participating in the public fund program were successful in winning seats.

Twenty-six (26) candidates received a total of $228,173 in the 2004 elections. Because of a significant drop in total candidates for all offices, the drop in number of participants was not unexpected. However, there were two candidates for Honolulu Prosecuting Attorney, and both candidates received public funding. The combined disbursement equaled over $108,900 to the two prosecutor candidates. Also, of note is that ten candidates went on to elective office, including two first time candidates.
